Bicycle riders are drivers too. And as drivers, says the Automobile Club of Southern California, they are subject to the same rules of the road as motorists. If your children ride bicycles, be sure they know and obey all traffic laws. Their knowledge and practice of safety regulations will contribute much to your peace of mind.

Although most children return to school in September, the Greater Los Angeles Safety Council reminds motorists that there are still many pre-school youngsters playing in residential areas. The Council advises motorists to slow down in both school and residential neighborhoods.
